

About BDR Thermea / Short version

BDR Thermea is a world leading manufacturer and distributor of innovative heating and hot water systems and services. The group has a top market position in Western Europe and strong positions in rapidly growing markets. In total BDR Thermea operates in more than 70 countries worldwide employing over 6,400 people.

The strategy of the group involves marketing under multiple trade brands, with strong national operations in the major European economies allowing for rapid reaction to changes in local demand. BDR Thermea focuses on customer needs regarding innovative climate and hot water solutions and services, offering systems instead of only single products.

BDR Thermea continuously improves performance, environmental friendliness and energy savings, confirming and building on the leadership in the emerging market for low carbon micro combined heat and power products.
